A NJ State Police Museum

New Jersey State Police Museum and Learning Center. Established in 1982, the Museum is dedicated to preserving the memories and traditions of those troopers who have served throughout the history of the New Jersey State Police. Exhibits of photographs, videos and artifacts show the evolution of the State Police from its founding in 1921 to the present. The Museum and Learning Center is also the largest repository of physical evidence and documents from the Lindbergh Kidnapping Case. Displays of physical evidence presented at the "Trial of the Century" as well as over 200,000 pages of documents are available to the public. The Museum is open to the public Monday through Friday, 10am to 4pm; Saturdays and group tours by appointment. Ferry Road West Trenton, NJ (609) 882-2000

B Howell Living History Farm (R)

The Mercer County Park Commission operates Howell Farm as a historical site where visitors can experience the work and fun of a typical family farm of the region during the years 1890 – 1910. Open throughout the year for self-guided tours, school group visits and weekend family programs, the farm invites visitors to join in activities such as ice harvesting, maple sugaring, sheep shearing, pumpkin harvesting and dozens of hands-on activities related to actual operations. The farm's annual calendar of events features includes monthly hayrides (or sleighrides!), weekly craft programs for children and New Jersey's only horsedrawn plowing match. Each fall, the farm operates an elaborate corn maze as a fundraiser that supports preservation projects in the surrounding Pleasant Valley Rural Historic District. 70 Wooden's Lane Lambertville, NJ (609) 737-3299

D Kelsey Theatre

nown as the Premiere Family Theatre in Central New Jersey, The Kelsey Theatre offers a full season of live cultural events – musicals, comedies, dramas, dance and special events.
